Huntington gives an evaluation to all students to see where all their strengths and weaknesses are. They have tutoring and SAT prep. You should not sit with your child the entire time of homework. Homework is meant for a review of the day. If you have to help with every aspect of homework. There could be struggling in class and not knowing what is going on. You may need to have them checked out for basic skills. A question was asked about how we know if we are rushing with all the activities.
